1. (Secret - GLC) Colonel Seymour Shwiller, Technical Consultant, Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, called to say that he would be at DIA tomorrow morning for a briefing by [redacted] and [redacted] asked if we would certify his clearances [redacted] Security, is handling this. 25X1 25X1

2. (Confidential - JMM) Called Bill Van Ness, Chief Counsel, Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, who said they had firmed up their schedule and expected us to appear before the Committee in an informal, closed session at 0930 hours on Monday, 11 December in room 3112 New Senate Office Building. He said they would like about a fifteen minute introductory statement followed by about an hour's discussion. He asked how many of us would be appearing and I said [redacted] would provide a general overview and [redacted] would be along to answer questions. I said I doubted the Director would be available, and he said they were not counting on the Director's presence. 25X1 25X1

3. (Confidential - JMM) Tom Korologos, who handles Senate liaison for the White House, called to ask the name and membership of the CIA Subcommittee of Senate Armed Services, which I gave him. He also wanted to know whether they had met last year and I explained that generally we had appeared before the full Committee rather than the CIA Subcommittee since Stennis had taken over, but noted that we had met with the Subcommittee on 5 April 1972. I asked Korologos when they were going to release the news and he said as soon as they could check it out with "the man in Mississippi." I said while they were checking it out they could save themselves a lot of trouble by notifying McClellan --or in his absence Bill Woodruff--and Mahon, Hebert and Nedzi. I said this would make our life a little simpler, and I thought it would make it a good deal easier on the new Director. Korologos said this was a fine idea and he appreciated it. 25X1

4. (Internal Use Only - PLC) Sherwood Boehlert, Executive Assistant in the office of Representative Alexander Pirnie (R., N. Y.), called in behalf of a constituent, a former military pilot, who is seeking a flying position with the Agency. I informed Boehlert that the Agency does not hire pilots for flight activities; however, we would send an Agency brochure since the constituent's background might qualify him for another position if available.
